A Fortune Teller.

One day Mrs. Lorrimer's daughter, Violet, was nowhere to be found; neither was the gentleman, Senor Espanol, who taught the guitar. The whole city was alarmed by the account of the mysterious disappearance of a beautiful belle and a hard working gentlemanly young foreigner. However, when some one had discovered that the last gave lessons to the first, an inference was drawn by some cool lookeron.

"May they not have gone together?"

The mother at once drove the slanderer from her presence, preferring the idea that her Violet was murdered. However, before long a penitent letter all blotted with tears reached the poor old lady, all alone in her great Fifth Avenue mansion. Violet was married to Senor Espanol.

The more one loves a person the more furious does any deception on her part make one. A less loving mother might have forgiven. Stung to madness, this one wrote a terrible letter to the foolish girl who had so hurt her. The husband, a hot Spaniard, read it. It insulted him, and he forbade his wife ever to see her parent again. To do him justice, love, and no mercenary motive, had led him to elope with the pretty heiress.

So the gulf was fixed between the only two of the same blood who lived on earth, and Senor Espanol began to give lessons on the guitar for two instead of one. Then for three, four and five. If he had lived a little longer it would have been for six. But the day the fourth child was born, a countryman, who had mistook him for a rival, stabbed him in the back. He apologized the next moment, but the poor victim did not live to hear him through, but died trying to express the fact that the gentleman was perfectly excusable.

And so Violet, who had been very happy with her music master, was left a widow with four babies, no money, and no accomplishment that had been sufficiently cultivated to earn a living by. Of course she took in sewing, and of course a day came when there was a very small prospect of supper and not even a dream of breakfast.

Not a penny in the house, not a loaf of bread in the closet, not a dollar's worth of work to be got anywhere, what was she to do? The poor little woman walked up and down the room and cried. That did not help her. She looked over the relics of the past. There were pretty pieces of jewelry, worth nothing. Valuable things had all been sold long ago. She glanced out of the window. A woman with a very large new basket and no shoes went begging from door to door.

The basket was worth two dollars and a half, the shoes could be bought for two. The singular circumstances preyed upon her mind. She began to take an interest in the ways and manners of beggars as the awful expectation of becoming one began to haunt her.

"I could drown myself," she said, "but I could not well drown four children, like a litter of puppies."

Then leaning her chin on her hands she watched from her window another woman, with a handkerchief over her head going from door to door. Was she begging? It seemed not. Once or twice she entered and stayed some time. At last she saw her at her own door, and heard her going from room to room. There was a knock at the door. She opened it, and the woman was there.

"Well?" she said inquiringly.

"Let me tell your fortune, lady. I only charge twenty-five cents," said the woman.

"My fortune is told, since I have not twenty-five cents in the world," said Violet.

The woman turned away.

"Stop a minute," said Violet. "In this age do people say you tell their fortunes?"

"No age is too old," said the woman. "I just told an old lady's fortune below. It was in the cards that she was to have a husband—her fourth. She gave me a dollar. Look!" she opeued her palm. "I make money, I do. I'm a seventh child; I see the future. I'll take any bit of jewelry if you have not any money. Have your fortune told?"

But Violet shook her head and closed the door hastily.

"I cannot steal, and to beg I am ashamed," she said to herself. "After it is dark to-night I will go out and tell fortunes. Then she took two flat irons to the junk shop, bought a loaf of bread and a pint of milk, and fed her four children—she for whom nothing had once been dainty enough, and who had ridden in her own carriage.

She put the children to bed, and left the key with a neighbor, in case of fire, a dread that haunts those many storied houses like a ghost, and then, disguised in veil, shawl and hood, went forth on her errand. It was a crazy dream. She had not courage to attempt fortune telling. It was worse than begging. She wandered along the streets, coming at last to the homes of luxury. In the end she stood before her mother's window. There was a light in the basement, and through the lace curtains she saw a table spread, and the shadow of a figure she knew to be her mother's on the curtain; and there, drawing down the shade, was Martha, who had nursed her when a child.

Tears filled her eyes. It was a paradise which she never hoped to regain. Had not her mother written:

"A curse on you. Never darken my doors anymore unless you wish to hear me utter it."

But there at least she had not the terror of strangers upon her; she could beg or tell fortunes. Martha was superstitious and always had dreams of matrimony, and of the coming back of a lover who had gone to sea when she was in her teens, and had never been heard of since.

She crept up to the window and tapped on the panes. In a moment Martha opened the door.

The hooded figure drew near.

"Let me tell your fortune?" she said.

"Bother," remarked Martha. "I am past fortunes."

"What," said Violet. "With a lover gone to sea?"

"Lord save us!" cried Martha.

"And in one place twenty years," said Violet.

"You know more than is good," said Martha. "Stop a bit. Are you one of them clairvoyants?"

"Yes," said Violet.

"Could you see where people are, what's come of them and that?" asked Martha. "For instance, a gal that's been gone eight years, could not look for her in a dream, like as I have heard they can, and find her?"

"Yes, I think I could," said Violet.

"Sit here, then," said Martha, pointing to a chair in the hall, and hurried into the dining-room.

She came back in a moment.

"Come and speak to missus," she said, and Violet, trembling so she could scarcely stand, entered her mother's presence.

No love is like a mother's. Violet had known that since she cast it off. She knew it now, looking on the pale face where wrinkles had come so thickly—on the hair, all turned gray now—on the sad eyes, that were so bright when she last saw them.

She longed to kneel at her mother's feet and beg for forgiveness, but she dared not yet; had not she sinned too deeply to hope for pardon? She stood silent with her head bowed down.

"They tell me you are a clairvoyant," said Mrs. Lorrimer. "I haven't much faith in such things, and if the power prospers its possessors so little it can not be worth much; but still I have something I should like to ask you. You search for lost things?"

Violet bowed.

"If you can find something I have lost I will repay you well," said Mrs. Lorrimer. "Here, sit down. Perhaps if you have this knowledge, you can tell me what I have lost."

Violet sat down.

"It should be darker," she said—"will you lower the light?"

Martha lowered the light and stood by the lady's chair—and there was silence. Violet had cast back her veil, but the firelight was not bright enough to show her features.

"Lady," she said in a low voice, "it is not gold or silver, that I see; it is nothing that can be bought for money. What I see is a girl."

"Good heavens!" cried the old lady.

"A girl of sixteen, with fair hair and blue eyes," said Violet. "That was what she was when you saw her last. Am I right?"

"Yes," said Mrs. Lorrimer.

"You loved her," said Violet; "she loved you. But she deceived you; she was wicked—wicked—wicked; but there was no excuse for her. She fell in love; she was mad for awhile. You cast her off. She is gone. You will never see her more."

"Hush! hush!" cried Mrs. Lorrimer. "She was not bad. I was wicked; I knew what it was to love, yet I forsook her because she knew it also. Look again. How does life use her?"

"She is a widow, and is very poor," said Violet. "So wretchedly poor that she does not know where to get bread; but she will not come to you. You would curse her. You will never see her again."

The old lady started from her chair.

"What are you? How do you know the secrets of my life, the words I most repent uttering? Look again! Tell me shall I see her once more. Tell me where to find the only babe I ever held against my breast! My little one—my Violet—where is she?" And the woman she addressed fell upon her knees and clasped her hands.

"She is here," she cried, "Mother she is here!" and the two wept together in each other's arms; and all was forgiven.

The good mansion is no longer desolate. There are little children's voices there, and the mother and daughter are together once more. And in that other world, where we cannot believe that wrath endures, doubtless the lover of her youth rejoices that Violet's mother's fortune was told so well.

English and American.

(From the New York Observer.)

It is often said that Americans and Englishmen have a common language; and so they have—with a difference. In a small circle of educated people in both countries the English language is spoken in the same way, barring some very noticeable differences of inflection. But the masses in the two countries have a considerable vocabulary of different words. Walking down Fleet street, in London, the other day, I saw a sign in a barber's window, which read: 'Teeth scaled, drawn and stopped.' I, of course, knew what it meant, but I never heard either word used in the same sense in America. I found the 'Baggage Room' to be in England a 'Left Luggage Room,' and a 'Ticket Office' a 'Booking Office,' an 'Elevator' a 'Lift,' and I might go on to the end of the column enumerating different words of different sense applying to the same word. But more than this, I went out to Hampstead Heath one day, within the postal circle of London, and not finding a cab, asked a lad to show me the house I sought—some half a mile from the station. The child was a veritable cockney—had literally been born within the sound of Bow-bells. He was a very talkative lad, and spoke English as his native tongue; but I was actually unable to understand more than two-thirds of his talk. Of course, in speaking of this difference of language, I do not refer to the radical differences that exist in the English counties, where, practically, English is not generally spoken; but to that class of people who would claim a vernacular right in Webster's Dictionary or its English equivalent. Taking a hundred men, as you would meet them on Broadway, and another hundred men as you would meet them in the Strand, I am sure the former would speak the better English, judged by any mutually acknowledged standard. But the English-speaking voice is better than ours—fuller, richer, and gentler; and the mere sound of a group of Englishmen talking together is pleasanter to the ear than the talk of a similar group of Americans. Humorous Mistakes of Parish Clerks.

We have great respect for the following humorous items. Their age entitle them to it. Parish clerks are proverbial for their absurd mistakes, but I would back old Lee against any one of the fraternity. Though a kind-hearted old fellow, he used to declare regularly that he was become 'a lion to his mother's children,' instead of alien. On one occasion he gave out that 'Mr. A—— and Mr. B—— would preach every Sunday to all eternity'—he meant alternately! Tradition says he once announced publicly 'that there would be no service next Wednesday, 'kas master had gone a-fishing for another clergyman'—officiate was the word intended. The following occurrence was a severe trial to our risible muscles. An interesting event had happened in the squire's family, which was duly followed by a thanksgiving service in the church. After the minister had said, 'O Lord, save this woman, thy servant,' the clerk responded, 'Who putteth her ladyship's trust in thee.' But the richest thing of all was Lee's reply to an inquiry as to how many of the clergy he had known in the parish during his half-century of clerkship. He gave the names of all the rectors, beginning with the squire's great uncle 'a mighty hunter in the land,' known for his unclerical exploits fifty years ago. "But how many curates have you seen?' demanded the enquirer. "Bless you sir, I don't take no account of curates!" While on parochial matters, I must not forget the story of Churchwarden Jenkins, who once proposed that the church music should be improved by a 'baboon.' 'A baboon!' repeated the rector in dismay. 'Yes, sir, a baboon is a wonderful help to the musicians in the gallery—it encourages them to sing out.' Of course he meant a bassoon. The rector never told the story without laughing.—Preacher's Analyst.

SHY'S WONDERFUL FIGHT.

Single-handed Repulsing a Band of Hostile Apaches, and Saving his Wife.

[From the Albuquerque Democrat.]

Mr. Shy is a sturdy, plain-spoken, intelligent man, and apparently unaware that he has achieved a feat unexcelled by any of the knights of romance. He was just sitting down to his dinner with his wife and boy, and had one arm in a sling because of some recent injury to the hand. He heard some slight noise in the yard, and, glancing through the window just in his rear, he was horrified to see a painted Apache stealthily creeping up. Quick as thought he tore the bandages from his arm, sprang to the corner of his room where his Winchester was resting, and seized it wheeled around just in time to receive the fire of the savage, which he instantly returned. Mrs. Shy closed and locked the door at the same moment. And the Indians, seeing that they had a brave man to fight, placed themselves out of view of the window and opened a rattling fire upon the house from all sides. It was a flimsy frame structure, a bullet would go through the walls as though they were pasteboard. It was a terrible time for about an hour inside of that little house, with the pale, terror-stricken wife and boy crouching in the loft and the desparate ranchman crouching in the room below, firing only when he could see an Indian through the window, listening to the angry zip of the bullets as they tore through the thin walls and whistled about his head.

After awhile there was a lull in the firing. A few yards distant from Mr. Shy's house was the house of Mr. A. J. Yeater, his partner in a cattle ranch, and who was at that time being butchered in company with his wife, four miles away. The lull in the firing was caused by the fact that the savages had broken open Mr. Yeater's residence and were making themselves merry eating and drinking and breaking up the furniture. After getting through with this they fired the house, which in a few minutes was a mass of flames. Mr. Shy saw that his own house would be on fire in a few minutes, and for a moment was well-nigh paralyzed with despair. He glanced at his wife and boy, and knew from the ominous signs without that the Indians were only waiting for the flames to drive them out. In a moment his house was on fire, and telling his wife and boy to come down from the loft, he prepared to open the door and make a rush for safety for some large rocks near by. Opening the door he threw his body half way out and fired full at a group of savages; at the same instant he sprang back within the house. The next moment at least a dozon bullets were buried in the door facing. The flames were getting too hot, however, to remain in doors, and Mr. Shy telling his wife and boy to follow him, sprang outside and made a rush for a large rock near by. When he got within about twelve feet of it, five savages jumped up from behind it and fired right in his face. By a wonderful providence not a bullet struck him, and he instantly started for another large rock, from which another group of red-skins fired a volley in his face. A storm of bullets were whistling around him from all sides, but he seemed to bear a charmed life, and not one of them touched him. He had the presence of mind before leaving the house to fill his pockets with cartridges, and he kept popping away at the savages.

Out in the open and knowing that he could no longer be tortured to death like a rat in a hole, all sense of fear left him, and he actually assumed the aggressive and ran the savages in a body some distance away, where they secreted themselves behind some large rocks. He also placed himself behind a rock, and in this position whenever he could see the body of an Indian exposed he fired at it. Meanwhile his little boy had been shot down, and Shy had kept the Indians so busy by his own determined work that Mrs. Shy had an opportunity to get up the gulch. The wounded boy had crawled into a thicket where his father had directed him to go, but not before his devoted mother, tearlessly exposing herself to the firing had taken off one of her skirts and wrapped it around the little fellow. There are numberless details connected with the fight which I have no space for, but it is sufficient that this heroic ranchman kept back the savages until dusk, when they retired. Meanwhile Mrs. Shy had made a detour and started on a trip for Deming, twenty miles away, hoping to get assistance for her husband. The poor lady was found in an exhausted condition late at night struggling along the road about ten miles from Deming. She was picked up by a relief party of men who had been notified by cowboys that Shy was surrounded by a large party of hostiles.

'Now tell me, candidly, are you guilty?' asked a solicitor of his client. 'Why, do you suppose I'd be fool enough to hire you if I was innocent?'

ANECDOTES OF THE FRENCH REVOLUTION.

At the commencement of the French Revolution, nearly one hundred years ago, the lieutenant-general of the police of Paris had upon his register the names of no fewer than two thousand suspected and deprayed characters, whose pursuits were known to be of a criminal nature; yet by making the department of police the immediate object of the close and uniform attention of one branch of the executive government, crimes were much less frequent than in England, and the security extended to the public with regard to the protection of life and property against lawless depredation was infinitely greater. The following narratives were authenticated by an English magistrate at that time, and a record of them, written at the commencement of this century, is now in the possession of the present writer.

A merchant of high respectability in Bordeaux had occasion to visit Paris upon commercial business, carrying with him bills and money to a very large amount. On his arrival at the gates of the French metropolis, a genteel-looking man opened the door of the carriage and addressed him to this effect: 'Sir, I have been waiting for you some time. According to my notes, you were to arrive at this hour; and your person, your carriage and your portmanteau exactly answering the discription I hold in my hand, you will permit me to have the honor of conducting you to Monsieur de Sartine.'

The gentleman, astonished and alarmed at this interruption, and still more at hearing the name of the lieutenant of the police mentioned, demanded to know what M. de Sartine wanted with him, adding that he had never committed any offense against the laws, and that the police could have no right to detain him. The messenger declared himself ignorant of the cause of the detention, and said that when he had conducted him to M. de Sartine, he should have executed his orders. After some further explanations, the gentleman permitted the officer to conduct him to the police official.

M. de Sartine received him with great politeness, and after requesting him to be seated, to his astonishment described his portmanteau, and told him the exact amount in bills and cash which he had brought with him to Paris, where he was to lodge, his usual time of going to bed, and a number of other circumstances, which he had conceived were known only to himself. Having thus excited his attention, M. de Sartine asked him: 'Sir, are you a man of courage?'

The gentleman, still more astonished at the singularity of this interrogatory, demanded the reason why such a question was put, adding that no man had ever doubted his courage.

M. de Sartine replied: 'Sir, you are to be robbed and murdered this night. If you are a man of courage, you must go to your hotel and retire to rest at the usual hour. But be careful not to fall asleep; neither will it be proper for you to look under your bed or into the closet which is in your chamber. You must place your portmanteau in its usual situation near your bed and betray no suspicion. Leave what remaines to me. If you do not feel your courage sufficient to bear you out, I will procure some one who shall personate you and go to bed in your stead.'

The merchant being convinced that M. de Sartine's intelligence was accurate in every particular, refused to be personated, and resolved to follow literally the directions he had received. He accordingly drove to the hotel, and went to bed at his usual hour, eleven o'clock. At half past twelve—the time mentioned by M. de Sartine—the door of his bedchamber burst open, and three men entered with a dark lantern, daggers and pistols. The merchant perceived one of them to be his own servant. They rifled his portmanteau undisturbed and settled the plan of putting him to death. Hearing all this and not knowing by what means he was to be rescued, it may be supposed he was under great pertubation of mind during such an interval of suspense. When at the moment the villians were preparing to take the merchant's life, four police officers, who were concealed under the bed and in the closet, rushed out and seized the offenders with the property in their possession. The consequence was that the perpetration of the murder was prevented and sufficient evidence obtained to convict the offenders. M. de Sartine's inteligence thus enabled him to prevent many cases of murder and robbery.

The second story is as follows: The Emperor of Austria, Joseph II., having in the year 1787 formed and promulgated a new code of laws relative to criminal and civil affairs, and having also established what he conceived to be the best system of police in Europe, could scarcely ever forgive the French nation, in consequence of the accuracy and intelligence of M. de Sartine's police having been found superior to his own, notwithstanding the pains he had bestowed on that department of his government. A notorious Austrian offender, who had committed many atrocious acts of violence and depredation in Vienna, was traced to Paris by the police established by His Majesty, who ordered his ambassador at the court of France to demand that this delinquent should be delivered up to public justice. M. de Sartine acknowledged to the imperial ambassador that the person he inquired after had been in Paris; that, if he wished it, he would inform him where he lodged, and the different gaming-tables and other places of resort which he had frequented while there; but that he was now gone.

The ambassador insisted that this offender must still be in Paris, otherwise the emperor would not have commanded him to make such an application.

M. de Sartine smiled at the incredulity of the imperial minister, and replied to the following effect: 'Do me the honor, sir, to inform the emperor, your master, that the person he looks for left Paris about the 10th of last month, and is now lodged in a back-room, looking into a garden, in the third story of a house, No. 93 in —— street, in his own capital; where His Majesty will, by sending to the spot, be sure to find him.

It was literally as the French minister had stated. The emperor, to his astonishment, found the delinquent in the house and apartment described; but he was greatly mortified at this proof of the superiority of the French police.—New York Observer.

The Treacherous Frog.

A Source of Annoyance and Danger to Railroad Men.

The frogs on railroad tracks are the dread of many railroad men, and they try to keep their feet clear of them. A travelling man said the other day:

"It is the easiest thing in the world to slip your foot in some of the frogs. They are shaped sometimes like the letter V, and when you slip your foot in the open part it is fast. There seems to be no way of getting out of it except to pull the foot out of the boot. A man has no time for that always. I remember once, very distinctly getting my foot in a frog. I had on a pair of rubber boots, and I got my foot fast just as easy as anything could be. I thought I could pull it out without any trouble, and as a train was backing down on that part of the track I proceeded pretty quickly to try. My foot did not come out. A little astonished, I pulled again, but it did not come. It did not seem to be squeezed very tight, and I was annoyed. The train was coming nearer and, as the engineer was backing his engine down, there was no way to stop it. I gave a terrible wrench on my foot but it did not come. The train was so close I knew that it would run on me. Luckily, the train was coming down on the rail outside of my foot. I leaned over and twisted my legs over away from the car as it came. When the wheels passed over I knew something was crushed, though it did not pain me much then. The whole train went over. After they had got by, as the boot was pretty well torn, I managed to pull it out of the frog and was helped to the station. It crushed my foot pretty badly, but not so much that amputation was necessary, and I saved my foot and leg."

"Why didn't you pull your foot out of your boot?" asked the reporter.

"Well, I tried that," said the man, "but I couldn't get it out. The frog had pressed over the sole. No doubt I could have cut the boot off if I had done it right away, but I thought until it was too late that I could pull the boot out."

Another man had a similar experience. It broke his leg. He jumped off a car and jumped in a frog. Before he could pull his foot out the wheels ran over the outer edge of the rail in a similar way.

Those who are caught are not always so lucky. Once in a while a man is caught and the wheels of a car run directly over the frog, and then the man is injured. Railroad men are quite unanimous in believing that frogs on a railroad are very treacherous

A Congressman's Wind.

Half a dozen men in a saloon in Nipandtuck, the other night, were trying to blow out a candle ten feet distant, but all failed. Presently a enteely dressed gentleman entered the room and offered to bet fifty dollars he could extinguish the candle twelve feet distant. The bet was promptly taken, and the genteely dressed man blew out the candle at the first effort, pocketed the money, took a drink, and then left the barroom loafers looking at each other in blank astonishment.

"Who in the dickens is that 'ere feller, anyhow?" queried the "bum" who had lost the bet.

"Don't you know him?" asked the bartender. "Why that feller is an Indiana Congressman, and goes around to the county fairs and wins money by blowing the bottoms out of lung-testers. It's no use to bet against his wind, boys!"

L. A. SHAFFER, Secretary. ADAM HOY, Chairman.

EDMUNDS, the Vermont Senator, opened fire on President Cleveland, in an address which he delivered on Monday. This speech is considered the opening of a general debate in senate on the question of the Executive's rights in the removal of officers and the furnishing of explanatory papers, to the senate, whether official or unofficial. The arguments on the prerogatives of the President and those of the senate, are expected to last this week at least. But, after all, public sentiment seems to be with the President and whatever may be the outcome of the contest of a single-handed president, standing upon firm constitutional ground, and a legislative body, with weak partisan ideas, Cleveland's able message to the senate left its deep impressions upon the minds of the public and his course is and will be endorsed by the people.

A Washington correspondent of the Phila. Times in an article on the President's stand in this conflict, winds up as follows:

As for the suspensions over which the controversy has grown, the Senate's resolves will not restore a single man. If the President is compelled to send in new nominations he will be making two blades of political grass grow where only one grew before—that is, he will not be responsible for the rejection and will get the credit for two appointments, where otherwise he would have had but one. The longer this is kept up on him the stronger he will grow and the weaker the Senate will become before the country.

SENATOR John F. Miller, of California, died at Washington on Monday afternoon. Senator Miller had been a gallant soldier in the late war and reached the rank of Major General He served successively under Sherman, Bull, Rosecrans and Thomas, was severely wounded in several battles and in one case lost an eye. Both houses of Congress adjourned upon the news of his death.

The probabilities are that the vacancy caused by Senator Miller's death will be filled by a democrat.

LABOR matters in all branches of industry are at present in a turbulent condition. The daily press reports strikes in all parts of the land and demands of higher wages are made by the laboring men with a set and determined spirit. Labor Unions are being organized and the situation looks like an organized war between capital and labor. In the meantime the people who look on earnestly hope and wish there may be an end to all strikes.

GOVERNOR Pattison's investigations of the Soldier's Orphans School result in the discovery of a good deal of rottenness in their management, and the charges lately published by the Philadelphia Record against the managing officials of said schools prove true to a large degree. Turn the rascals out before very long.

MRS. GOV. SEYMOUR died at the residence of Mrs. Roscoe Conkling, at Utica, N. Y., on Monday. Mrs. Seymour has been an invalid for some time and at the time of her husband's death it was surmised that she would not live very long.

LAST Monday General Simon Cameron, of Harrisburg, celebrated his 87th birthday. The venerable statesman seems to enjoy right good health and bore the labors of receiving his many friends on that day without much fatigue.

EMPEROR WILLIAM of Germany will be eighty-nine years old on the 22nd of this month.

MRS. SENATOR PEALE, of Lock Haven, died at her residence in that city last week.

ROLLER FLOUR FOR SALE.— The undersigned will in the future keep on hand a supply of the Oriental Roller Flour, manufactured by Messrs. Kurtz & Son, Centre Hall. Having added another capacity to their mill, they are now able to put before the public a more superior quality of flour than is offered anywhere in the county.

Miscellaneous News.

Public Building for Allentown.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Senator Cameron introduced a bill to-day for the erection of a public building at Allentown, Pa. It appropriates $100,000 for the purpose.

—McDonald's Improved Liver Pills are endorsed and prescribed by many eminent physicians. They do not make hair grow on bald heads or set broken bones, but they are the best corrector of a disordered Liver yet discovered. Money refunded to dissatisfied purchasers.

Blind With Rage.

LA GRANGE, Ga., March 4.—Gaston McCarty, a well-to-do farmer in this county, while driving home his cattle became enraged at a refractory cow. He drew a bead upon the animal with his rifle, fired and shot, instead of the cow, his 9-year-old son, who was in range on the other side. The boy died instantly.

Burial of a Giant—Fell Dead.

MOUNT CARMEL, March 9.—Giant Jacob Birty, who weighed 470 pounds, was buried here to-day. The coffin could not be placed in a hearse, and was carried by 12 persons.

During the ceremonies Mrs. Halfenstein, a relative, fell dead on the coffin, from heart disease. The feeling among the spectators was intense.

—Says neighbor Smith, "My little girl was pale and sickly, rapidly losing flesh, appetite variable, and sleep much disturbed. Her condition was becoming alarming. Was advised by a friend to try McDonald's Celebrated Worm Powders. Administered three and she expelled the enormous number of 132 worms." Neighbor smith now thinks McDonalds Worm Powders are the greatest vermifuge in existence.

Still Lingers.

Dr. Benjamin Lee, Secretary of the Board of Health, says the latest consular reports show that cholera still lingers in Europe, and that small-pox is exceedingly prevalent in the southern portions, especially in Italy. The last complete returns from that kingdom indicate that 137 places have been infected, in which the average number of cases per month has been 2,000, and the average number of deaths 480.

A PAYING INVESTMENT.—At this season of the year, when your cows fail in milk, your horses become rough in coat, your pigs refuse to thrive, the hens won't lay as many eggs as they should, you will find a package or two of McDonald's Celebrated Tonic and Blood Purifying Horse and Cattle Powders judiciously administered an investment that will pay his dividends. They are positively the best Horse and Cattle Powders made. Dissatisfied buyers can have their money refunded. What other manufacturer dare make this offer. Sold by all dealers

A Costly Practical Joke.

NEW YORK, March 7.—As a New York City and Northern train was about to leave the South Yonkers station Friday afternoon, one of two girls with whom John L. Hamilton, was conversing leaned form a car window and snatched off his hat. Hamilton jumped aboard the train just as it started and recovered his hat from the laughing girls. As he leaped from the moving train in his haste he struck an obstruction on the platform which threw him back under the train, and his left leg was cut off at the knee.

GUILTY OF MURDER.

CHESTER, Pa., March 7.—The jury in the Sharpless murder case came into court yesterday after remaining out twenty-two hours, with a verdict of murder in the first degree. Johnson, the prisoner, remained perfectly calm while the jury were being polled, until the last man said guilty, when an apparent shudder crept over him. The defendant's counsel immediately made a motion for a new trial, which will be argued the first Monday in April. Johnson was remanded to jail. He seemed to realize more fully his danger after the verdict was rendered and showed great uneasiness. It is generally thought he will be given another chance for his life.

—JUST SO! Seven out of ten you meet have a bad cold, and with coughing, hawking and snoring are about kept busy. Do a good thing for yourself at once, by going to the nearest drug store and getting a bottle of Dr. Kessler's Celebrated English Cough Medicine. If you are not satisfied that it is worth all you pay, the druggist will hand you back your money.

ANOTHER MINE HORROR.

Three terrific explosions caused by fire-damp occurred in the Uniondale mine, located about four miles from Connellsville, last Monday. Twenty-three miners were at work at the time, and only nine of these escaped from the pit. Of the other fourteen, two were killed instantly, their bodies having been found afterwards in a horribly mangled condition. Twelve were injured and four of these are not expected to live.

Work of the Crazing Alcohol.

BEAVER FALLS, March 5.—While George Campbell and his sister, Lizzie, a young lady about 17 years old, together with Dave Snowden, were playing a friendly game of cards the other evening, George, who was slightly intoxicated, quarreled with his sister. While she was in the act of stooping over to pick up a card from the floor, with one hand resting on the table, he picked up a butcher-knife and, with a horrible oath, plunged it into the hand lying on the table. The knife went clear through and sunk deeply into the wood, completely pinning the hand to the table top. The poor girl screamed with pain, while Snowden knocked the brother down and kicked him into a state of insensibility. A physician was sent for to dress the wounds, and brother and sister are confined to their beds. The family, which is very respectable, moved here lately from Brady's Bend.

—That old established cough remedy Downs' Elixir, still more than holds its own in the public estimation, despite sharp and active competition. It is a "home remedy," and in this locality needs no words of praise from us, so well and favorably known is it. It is the standard remedy for coughs, colds and all throat troubles, with great numbers of our people, and their continued use and unsolicited recommendation of it speaks in its favor.—Burlington, Vt., Free Press, Jan. 26, 1882.

BIG FIRE IN LANCASTER.

The Post-Office Building Badly Damaged—Loss $80,000 to $100,000.

LANCASTER, March 8.—A fire broke out at 7 o'clock this evening in the feed store of Henry Fisher, a frame structure on Market street, and in a short time the entire structure was destroyed with its contents, including a horse. The flames communicated to the rear of A E Keplar's hardware store, a large structure 300 feet long, and extending to North Queen street. The fire swept the entire length of the building, and it is a total ruin. The flames next communicated to the Post-office building, next door, but the firemen succeeded in saving the building from destruction, although it is badly damaged. The Post-office authorities removed all their mail matter and furniture Walter Sampson, a fireman, was seriously injured. The loss will be between $80,000 and $100,000. The hardware store and adjoining building are well insured.

MUSICAL COLLEGE.—The 28th Session of Six Weeks opens Monday evening, April 26th, 1886 for the Teaching and Training of Young Ladies in Vocal and Instrumental Music. Address, F. C. Moyer, Musical Director, Freeburg, Pa.

—The extraordinary popularity of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is the natural result of its use by intelligent people for over forty years. It has indisputably proven itself the very best known specific for all colds, coughs, and pulmonary complaints.

THE READING SYNDICATE.

The Part It Will Play in the Reorganization, as explained by Mr. Corbin.

NEW YORK, March 5.—Mr. Corbin, on his return from Boston this morning, was interviewed on the subject of the reorganization of Reading, and says: 'An erroneous impression seems to prevail as to the position of the Drexel, Morgan & Co. syndicate. It has nothing whatever to do with the preparation of the plan for the reorganization of Reading. That is entirely in the hands of the reorganization trustees. When perfected, whatever it may be, the syndicate will undertake to carry it through. A commission has been at work at this plan a long time. It is composed of most excellent men. They are giving everybody a most patient hearing, and doing their best to formulate a plan that will be just and equitable to all. They will, beyond any question, secure it, and the property will be put on its feet by the syndicate. With friendly relations established and maintained between other coal roads, as they must absolutely be to enable any of them to make a fair return upon their capital, the future of Reading will be assured beyond all preadventure. It should be said, in justice to Mr. Gowen, that no person has maintained a stronger degire to see this brought about, and that his expected plan will be out early, perhaps next week, and when it is issued will undoubtedly be accepted by a very large majority of every class of security holders.'

Central Pennsylvania Conference, Evangelical Association.

The forty-seventh session of the Central Pennsylvania Conference convened in the newly erected St. Luke's Evangelical Church at Millheim, Pa., March 4th, 1886.

Promptly at 8.30, A. M., Bishop Thomas Bowman of Allentown Pa., opened Conference with devotional services. An impressive and eloquent address was delivered by the Bishop in which he dwelled largely upon the peculiarities of our Church characteristics. His address was well received.

The Bishop then appointed Rev. E. Swengel to act as secretary of Conference. Rev. Swengel is the first elder that the Bishop ever ordained. Revs. J. C. Reeser and E. Crumbling were appointed assistant secretaries. Rev. G. H. Schleh was appointed reporter for the Christliche Botschafter, A. H. Irvine reporter for the Evangelical Messenger, E. S. Bolinger reporter for the Baltimore papers, P. C. Weidemyer reporter for the Bellefonte papers, L. E. Crumbling for the York papers, H. W. Gross for the Williamsport papers, R. W. Runyan and G. L. Burson for the Philadelphia papers, Bro. Vought for the Harrisburg papers, and C. W. Finkbinder for the Millheim Journal.

After a little more unimportant business the Conference went into secret session, to examine the moral and official conduct of the preachers.

Rev. W. Yost, Jr. Publishing Agent of Cleveland, O. S. Heininger, Corresponding Secretary of the Missionary Society of the Church, P. W. Raidabaugh, Editor of the Sunday School Literature, were received as advisory members. An interesting letter from Rev. Jacob Hartzler, Missionary of Japan, was read by Rev. M. J. Carothers. The Secretary was instructed to reply to the same.

Rev. S. T. Buck surrendered his license during the year and withdrew from the Church. His Elder's license was declared null and void.

Revs. Ettinger, Hengst, Mountz and Deininger were appointed a committee on worship.

Rev. P. W. Raidabaugh was appointed to preach in the evening.

Conference adjourned with prayer by Rev. Z. Hornberger.

Afternoon Session.—Opened with devotional exercises conducted by the Bishop and E. Khor.

Rev. E. O. Goodling, was excused from further attendance to conference, on account of sickness.

Rev. H. W. Lilly, resigned his charge during the year. His resignation was accepted by his Presiding Elder.

Rev. W. M. Corman was reported as having surrendered his license during the year, and withdrew from the Church.

Revs. E. O. Goodling and T. A. Shortiss, had deacon orders voted them.

The following were voted Elder's orders: J. R. Seachrist, J. H. Welch, J. D. Stover, H. S. Basom, S. M. Mountz, H. A Benfer, J. D. Shortiss and A. W. Swengel.

By a request of the Missionary Society, Rev. Jacob Young was excused from preaching the annual Missionary sermon, and Rev. S. Heininger appointed in his place.

Rev. B. F. Hall is to be considered a supernumary during this year.

The following are superannuated preachers: G. Hunter, P. S. Orwig, E. Kohr, A. L. Reeser, A. Krouse, C. F. Deininger, E. Stambach and H. Conrad.

The following had licenses voted them: E. S. Bollinger, G. Gallagher, F. S. Norman, A. Williamson, C. J Dick. Rev. J. C. Hummer, an Elder of the M. E. Church South, was received into this conference in the same relation.

The following were recommended by their classes to this conference as applicants for the Ministry, and after they answered to the regular disciplinary questions they were liscensed to preach: M. F. Thomas, J. Wommeldorf and C. D. Moore.

After the Chairman announced the standing committees, conference adjourned with prayer, by Rev. U. F. Swengel.

In the evening, Rev. P. W. Raidabaugh, Editor of the English Sunday School Literature, preached an eloquent and highly instructive sermon from the words, "Feed my Lambs." He made a strong plea for the children and young people of the Church.

Friday Morning's Session.—The devotional services were conducted by the Bishop and A. H. Irvine and C. F. Deininger.

The minutes of the previous sessions were read and adopted.

Rev. Z. A. Yearick, of the Reformed Church, was introduced to Conference, and invited to take a seat within the Conference bar.

Rev. A. W. Maxwell withdrew during the year and surrendered his liscense.

Dillsburg Circuit was divided, and the new circuit called Blooming Grove. Shrewsburry circuit to be supplied with two preachers. Centre circuit was divided, the upper end to be called Spring Mills circuit. Maple Grove Mission to be discontinued.

Hughsville circuit was divided, the upper end was added to Waller circuit and Hughsville to be made a Mission.

69 preachers signified their willingness to take work during the present year unconditionally.

Rev. J. H. Peters was placed on the list of local Elders.

Revs. S. I. Shortiss, M. J. Snyder, S. P. Remer, G. L. Burson, A. W. Swengel and R. Young, were retained in the itinerancy without an appointment. It was unanimously resolved that the next annual session of this Conference be held in the Trinity Church, Baltimore, Md., to begin on the first Thursday in March 1887.

A telegram from W. Numson was received, welcoming conference to Baltimore.

The country appointments of Danville Mission were detached from Danville and are to constitute Turbertville circuit.

The trustees of Wilson St. Chapel, Williamsport, Pa., were given the privelege to dispose of their Church property and to build elsewhere.

Strong resolutions were adopted in reference to temperance and the Sabbath.

Rev. I M. Pines was elected editor of the conference Journal for next year.

Rev. S. Heininger, corresponding secretary of the Missionary Society, addressed Conference in the behalf of the Missionary cause.

Rev. W. Yost, Jr. Publishing Agent, addressed Conference in the behalf of our Orphans Home and the Publishing interests.

Saturday's Session.—Half an hour was spent in a prayer and praise service.

Rev. Heckman of the M. E. Church, was introduced to Conference, and invited to take his seat within the conference bar.

The Pastor of Hagerstown Church was granted the privilege to canvass the Conference District for funds to complete the Church in that town.

The committee on Statistics reported that 2,200 persons were converted during the year, and 1,424 were newly received. Full membership 12,757. The amount of missionary money paid during the year $4,330.63.

The Conference then adjourned in favor of the Missionary and S. S. and Tract Societies.

The committee on worship reported that G. E. Zehner would preach the annual Educational sermon in the Ev. Church in the evening, and Bishop T. Bowman the Ordination sermon on Sabbath morning.

Other ministers were appointed to preach in the different churches of town on Sabbath evening.

Rev. R. W. Runyan delivered an earnest, instructive and eloquent address in the interest of the Sunday School and Tract Union of the Church.

After the addrees a vote of thanks was tendered Rev. Runyan for his address, and that a copy of the same be published in the Evangelical Messenger.

Rev. P. W. Raidabaugh addressed Conference in behalf of the Sunday School publications of our Church.

Resolutions were past pledging the support of Conference to our publishing house.

Rev. J. M. Pines, J. W. Bentz and W. E. Detweiler were elected trustees of Union Seminary.

Rev. J. McCachran, a local preacher, had deacon's orders voted him.

A committee of three was appointed to draft a constitution for a Church Building Extension Society.

Conference was largely attended by the people of Millheim and surrounding community.

Sabbath was a great day. Bishop Bowman preached a powerful ordination sermon. Many impressions were made that will not soon be forgotten. In the afternoon 8 young men were ordained to the order of Elders, and two were ordained to the office of deacon. The services were very solemn.

Rev. J. Young was appointed to preach the Missionary sermon next year.

The committee on memmorials reported that Rev. Ross and Mrs. Rev. A. L. Reeser died during the year.

Rev. E. Kohr was changed from the superannuated to the active relation.

Rev. Deininger was also again changed to the active relation.

Rev. J. W. Bentz was reelected Conference treasurer.

The following young men were received into the Itineranecy: C. V. B. Aurand, C. L. Sones, E. S. Bollinger and J. L. Miller.

A number of committees reported on various subjects all of which were adopted.

The trustees of Union Seminary reported through their secretary, Rev. I. M. Pines, the condition of the Institutions. Prof. Gobble also made an interesting address in its interest.

A vote of thanks was tendered to the people of Millheim for the hospitable manner in which they entertained Conference.

The preachers were stationed as follows:

—TAKE AYER'S Sarsaparilla in the spring of the year to purify the blood, invigorate the system, excite the liver to action, and restore the healthy tone and vigor of the whole physical mechanism.

NEW PROCESS Roller Flour—best in the market—manufactured at Fisher's mill, Penn Hall, is for sale at Kauffman's store. It is the delight of the housewife and consequently it is the most popular roller flour used.

—With all the advertising you see of parties selling at COST and throwing out extra inducements it remains an undisputable fact that there is no place where goods can be and are sold cheaper than at D. S. Kauffman & Co's store at Millheim.

—As stated before, our grammar school teacher, Mr. G. W. Long, by request of the directors and many of our citizens, has agreed to teach a spring term of school, which will open April 19th and last nine weeks. The regular winter term of his school will close on the 29th of this month, which will give those of his scholars who intend to take the spring term, about three week's vacation. Mr. Long during his winter term has proven a very successful teacher and a profitable spring term may be expected.

—Prof. J. H. Kurzenknabe's new book 'Gates Ajar,' for Sunday Schools, Praise and Prayer Meetings meets with universal favor among musicians and lovers of song and already over 8000 copies have been sold. It contains a collection of music of rare merit and the author, whose inimitable style of composing Sunday School music has made him famous, has placed a work before the public that will prove a joy to all purchasers. The book is gotten up in neat style, contains pages and is printed on first-class paper. Ye editor returns his sincere thanks for a morocco-bound, complimentary copy.

—In speaking of the various impositions and frauds practiced upon farmers by the many city sharpers "who go about seeking whom they may devour" the Bellefonte Daily News gives the following bit of advice which is worthy of consideration:

While every stranger traveling among the farmers should be treated civilly, as many of them are on honest business, the farmer should be very guarded in his dealings with all. Do not believe all of what they have to say in regard to any goods they may be selling, and if they happen to be acting for firms at a great distance, do not purchase of them, as there are certainly firms in the town nearest you who are known to be reliable and will give you the very best bargain the market can afford. Do not, under any circumstances, sign your name, even if it be on the most innocent-looking paper, for it will be certain to change itself into a promise to pay before many days. Do not allow any man to take advantage of you. This you owe as much to them as to yourself, especially if your daily petition is, "Lead us not into temptation"

SMITH TOWN.

Ho, ye western boys, have you backed out?

John Kimport bought the farm he is living on the other day.

Miss Ella Swartz and Annie Bierly, of Rebersburg, were welcome visitors among us last week.

Mr. Bressler has added another horse to his stock and intends to farm on a larger scale now.

Mr. Nerhud bought an acre of land, north of Smith Town, from J C Smith and is now busy preparing to build a house thereon.

Charles Frankenberger expects to remove the buildings known as the Mowery homestead, as soon as they are vacated by Mr. Nerhud.

Wm Snyder was B F Frankenberger's boarder over the conference.

B. F. had an unpleasant meeting on Sunday morning with a——. Good perfume to attend conference, not so Ben?

W. C. Duck and sister started to-day (Tuesday) to Nittany Valley, to attend the wedding of Miss Mary Emerick and Mr. Martin, which takes place in the Lutheran church at Snydertown. Wish you a happy time. JUMBO.

AARONSBURG.

The Methodists closed their protracted meeting on Tuesday evening of last week.

Frank Weaver's public sale of farm stock and implements of the 5th inst., amounted to over $1600.

A new board of water directors, to serve for one year, was elected last Saturday, consisting of Frank and Ezra Burd and Henry Beaver of North 2nd St., and Aaron Weaver and D. H. Rote of Front St.

The Haines township poor house will be ready for occupancy by the 1st of April. There will be room for four families, providing the occupants are blessed with lots of patience.

Rev. Deitzler's (Lutheran) protracted meeting, which had been in progress for nearly seven weeks in the St. Paul's church, closed on last Sunday evening with the most gratifying results to both pastor and people. There were 56 conversions, a large number of these being heads of families.

Rev. Irvine of the Ev. Association, who had been staying with Rev. Yearick of the Reformed church of this place during the Ev. conference at Millheim, occupied Rev. Yearick's pulpit on last Sunday evening. The congregation was highly pleased with the sermon. ANOTHER.

Mrs. Fannie M. Weaver, who has been visiting in Penns Valley, has returned home.

Prof. Howard Klepper and family, who reside at Boonville, Clinton Co., Pa., spent last Saturday and Sunday at Wm. Kreamer's. The professor is well aware of the fact that Mr. Kreamer's table always groans under a load of good things. Reports say that the Prof. eat very sparingly several days previous to this visit in order to be in a proper condition for a sumptuous meal. Nix fur ungut, Howard; call soon again. SQUIBOB.

COBURN.

Quite a number of the school children are on the sick list—bad colds seem to be the prevailing epidemic.

Mr. & Mrs. Wolf, of Sugar Valley, are visiting their daughter, Mrs. A M Grenninger, at this place.

Our affable young friend and clerk in Trumpfheller & Vonada's store, Mr. Sam. Rank, left us on Tuesday morning for his old home, New Columbia, where he takes his position behind the counters in Mr. Trumpfneller's store.

Mrs. John Stonebraker's mother, from Sugar Valley, is visiting in our burg for a few days.

Mr. Lew Gettig says he likes it very much in Millheim. No doubt, there is some satisfaction in being near to your Sunday girl. Nothing like it Lew!

The new firm of Durham Bros. & Co., have opened up business in full, with Mr. G W Swangle as business manager. Mr. S. is a real clever and genteel business man.

Hon. James P. Coburn, of Aaronsburg, presented the Lutheran congregation of this place with an elegant silver-plated communion service, finely engraved and bearing the donor's name and the date, Feb. 2., 1886, with his compliments to that rising organization. Mr. Coburn has the sincere gratitude of the entire congregation for his beautiful and useful gift.

Wheat is worth 88 cents and a big lot coming in too.

Mr. Trumpfheller is in town and will remain for some time.

It was amusing to see some of the Coburnites try to palm themselves off as preachers during the past week. For their families' sake we withhold their names. They even borrowed respectable looking hats to make a better appearance.

Why don't the auditors of this township publish their report in this paper, where all can see a full statement in plain figures? Three dollars for writing 8 or 10 copies will go a long ways towards paying the printer for the publication of the whole. DAMFINO.

SPRING MILLS.

John E. Swarm has moved to this place and soon expects to be ready to make the wood work of wagons and buggies.

J. W. Runkle and W. A. McClellan have leased the old store stand at Farmers' Mills. They expect to open up in the general merchandise trade by the 1st of April.

C. C. Cummings, of Phila., who has been spending a week in this place looking after the shoe trade for a city firm, has again left us.

Our schools which have been taught very successfully this winter will close in a few weeks.

The festival for the benefit of the M. E. church was well attended last week. Financially it was a decided success.

James W. Grenoble has moved to Oak Hall, Pa.

TAKE
LIVER REGULATOR
For all Diseases of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Spleen.

This purely vegetable preparation, now so celebrated as a Family Medicine, originated in the South in 1828. It acts gently on the Bowels and Kidneys and corrects the action of the Liver, and is, therefore, the best preparatory medicine, whatever the sickness may prove to be. In all common diseases it will, unassisted by any other medicine, effect a speedy cure.

The Regulator is safe to administer in any condition of the system, and under no circumstances can it do harm. It will invigorate like a glass of wine, but is no intoxicating beverage to lead to intemperance; will promote digestion, dissipate headache, and generally tone up the system. The dose is small, not unpleasant, and its virtues undoubted.

No loss of time, no interruption or stoppage of business while taking the Regulator.

Children complaining of Colic, Headache, or Sick Stomach, a teaspoonful or more will give relief.

If taken occasionally by patients exposed to MALARIA, will expel the poison and protect them from attack.

A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.

I have been practicing medicine for twenty years, and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons Liver Regulator, promptly and effectively move the Liver to action, and at the same time aid (instead of weakening) the digestive and assimilative powers of the system. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA has demonstrated its power of cure for all diseases of the blood.

The Harpooner's Story.
New Bedford, June 1, 1885.

DR. J. C. AYER & CO.—Twenty years ago I was a harpooner in the North Pacific, when five others of the crew and myself were laid up with scurvy. Our bodies were bloated, gums swollen and bleeding, teeth loose, purple blotches all over us, and our breath seemed rotten. Taken by and large we were pretty badly off. All our lime-juice was accidentally destroyed, but the captain had a couple dozen bottles of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA and gave us that. We recovered on it quicker than I have ever seen men brought about by any other treatment for scurvy, and I've seen a good deal of it. Seeing no mention in your Almanac of your Sarsaparilla being good for scurvy, I thought you ought to know of this, and so send you the facts.
Respectfully yours, RALPH Y. WINGATE.

The Trooper's Experience.
Masero, Basutoland (S. Africa,) March 7, 1885.

DR. J. C. AYER & CO.—Gentlemen: I have much pleasure to testify to the great value of your Sarsaparilla. We have been stationed here for over two years, during which time we had to live in tents. Being under canvas for such a time brought on what is called in this country "veldt-sores." I had those sores for some time. I was advised to take your Sarsaparilla, two bottles of which made my sores disappear rapidly, and I am now quite well.
Yours truly, T. K. BODEN,
Trooper, Cape Mounted Riflemen.

Spectacles For Horses.

A resident of Philadelphia recently discovered that a valuable roadster in his stable was afflicted with dimness of vision. Having ample leisure for experimenting, he made a careful in vestigation of lenses which he placed before the eyes of the animal. When he had found what he believed to be the correct glasses, he had them framed, and with a halter shaped especially for the purpose, secured them on the head of the horse. The gentleman had at first the greatest trouble in preventing him from smashing things.

'He saw too much,' he says. 'His sight was so much improved that he saw objebts in the stable that he had never seen before, and when I first kept the spectacles on him regularly he used to spend most of his time kicking at blankets, stable coats and harness that were near him. Then he seemed to discover that the spectacles were responsible for the unusual sights. He used to break them off by rubbing his head against the manger or the side of the stall. I then changed the frame for a lighter one, and fixed it on in such a manner that he hardly felt it, and he soon grew accustomed to the new order of things. Now he calls for his spectacles as regular every morning as he does for his breakfast, and he will not allow anything to be done for him until his "specs" are put on. He has grown rather proud of them, and I have had a pair of regular nose-glasses made for him, with a light chain dangling over one ear, and when he has them on he acts like a regular dandy.

'No, I never put the glasses on him when I drive out,' continued the gentleman in response to an inquiry; 'I don't care about being laughed at by the people I meet on the road, and a horse wearing glasses would certainly cause ridicule. In think, though, that eventually horses wearing glasses will be as common a sight as spectacled men, for I am sure that the first man who had the temerity to appear on the streets wearing a pair of glasses was as much laughed at as a horse would be now.'

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Are you disturbed at night and broken by your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING is pleasant ao the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

Badly Left-Handed.

Two friends were at a musical concert. One of them remarked:

'The violinist I see is left-handed.'

'Yes, I see, but not very badly, I should think.'

'Badly? Why, you don't mean to say that there are degrees in left-handedness?'

'Of course I do.'

'I didn't know that.'

'It's a fact, nevertheless. This fiddler seems to get along very well, at least, he acts all right. Tell you what's a fact. I knew a man once who was so badly left-handed that he couldn't eat with his right hand.'

'What?'

'It's a fact. He used his left hand for everything. Why, he couldn't sleep with his right hand.'

'You are foolish.'

'No, I'm stating a fact.'

'Couldn't eat nor sleep with his right hand.'

'That's what I said.'

'Why?'

'Didn't have a right hand.'

AYER'S Hair Vigor cures baldness. Hair Vigor restores youthful freshness and color to faded and gray hair. It attains these results by the stimulation of the hair roots and color glands. It rejuvenates the HAIR and cleanses it. It restores to the HAIR that, either by reason of age or diseases of the scalp, has become dry, harsh and brittle, a pliancy and glossy silken softness of extreme beauty. There is no dye in Ayer's Hair VIGOR and the good it does is by the it imparts to the follicles, and the cleanliness and healthfulness of the condition in which it maintains the scalp.

AYER'S Hair Vigor renews the hair. Hair Vigor is the best cure known for Brashy Hair, Scald Head, Itching Humors, Tetter Sores, Torpid Follicles, and all other diseases of the scalp that cause the falling of the HAIR and its fading. Nothing cleanses HAIR of the nuisance of dandruff so perfectly, and so effectually prevents its return, as AYER'S HAIR VIGOR. In addition to the curative and restorative virtues peculiar to Ayer's Hair it is a toilet luxury. The Hair VIGOR is by far the cleanliest hair-dressing made. It causes the hair to grow thick and long, and keeps it always soft and glossy.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

Contains no deleterious ingredients. Its use prevents all scalp disease, secures against the hair growing thin or gray, and surely cures all baldness that is not organic.

QUAKER

Is the Best

TABLE SAUCE.

Thousands of articles are now manufactured that in former years had to be imported, paying high import duty as it is now being done on Lea & Perrins table sauce; the QUAKER TABLE SAUCE takes its place; it has been pronounced by competent judges just as good and even better. The QUAKER SAUCE has Slowly but surely gained great importance and is replacing the very best imported sauce on the shelf of the grocer, the tables of the restaurant and the tables of the rich and poor men, greatly prized and relished by all on account of its piquancy, aroma, taste, strength and parsimony. The inventor has by years of study of the secret virtues contained in the aromatic spices of the Indies and China, such as mace, nutmeg, cinnamon, genuine Jamaica ginger, and peppers and buds of trees unknown to most men, and by long practice succeeded to combine their extracts in such a liquid form as we now find it of agreeable taste, and so invigorating as to be taken in place of stomach bitters. By manufacturing this sauce here, heavy import duties and freights are saved, and it is sold at a lower figure to the dealer, who making a better profit on Quaker Sauce can sell it to the consumer cheaper than he very best imported article hardly equaling ours. If your grocer does not keep it, write us for prices, etc. Sold in bottles or by the gallon.

THE BANNER SKATE.

ATTENTION RINK OWNERS.

Something entirely new. It has a SPRING STEEL FOOT BOARD (heavily nickeled but not polished) and possesses the full elasticity of the Club Skate yet will be furnished at a small advance beyond the price of ordinary Rink Skates.

Its construction is of the most thorough and satisfactory character.

This skate will prove a drawing card wherever introduced and Rink managers will do well to consider its merits, as only a small outlay is required beyond that necessary for ordinary outfit. Prices sent on application.
